Kearney Police Chief Bryan Waugh Selected as Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol

The City of Kearney proudly announces that Police Chief Bryan Waugh has been selected as the next Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol.

Chief Waugh has served the Kearney community with distinction for the past six years, demonstrating exceptional leadership, unwavering dedication, and a deep commitment to public safety. Under his guidance, the Kearney Police Department has made tremendous strides in officer training, community engagement, and departmental innovation. His impact will be felt for years to come, and we are immensely grateful for the contributions he has made to our city.

“Chief Waugh’s selection as Superintendent is a tremendous honor and a testament to the caliber of leadership we’ve been fortunate to have in Kearney,” said Brenda Jensen “We are proud to see him take this next step in his career and know he will serve the people of Nebraska with the same excellence and integrity he brought to our community.”

While we are sad to see him leave, we are honored that one of our own has been chosen to lead at the state level. The City of Kearney extends its heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to Chief Waugh as he steps into this important role serving all Nebraskans.
